CITING

plagiarism

from the TST Basic Degree Handbook, p. 26

Plagiarism, defined in the Code as “to represent as one’s own any idea or expression of an idea or work of another in any academic examination or term test or in connection with any other form of academic work,” can sometimes be committed inadvertently by students at an early stage of their program, but inadvertence is not in itself an acceptable excuse. Students must strenuously avoid (1) quoting passages from any source without using quotation marks, and (2) presenting information or ideas from other sources without properly referenced citations. Before presenting any written work in a TST course, students should be sure that have a clear and accurate understanding of what constitutes plagiarism, and to avoid any embarrassment they should verify this understanding with their instructors or college officials if they have any uncertainty. Even a single instance of plagiarism may result in expulsion from studies.

The Chicago Manual of Style Online

FIFTEENTH EDITION

UTL has a subscription: <http://simplelink.library.utoronto.ca/url.cfm/65161>

Print copy available in the St. Augustine’s Seminary Library:

http://search2.library.utoronto.ca/UTL/index?N=0&Nr=p_catalog_code:4837455&showDetail=first

A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations: Chicago Style for Students and Researchers, Kate L. Turabian; revised by Wayne C. Booth, Gregory G. Colomb, Joseph M. Williams, and University of Chicago Press editorial staff.

Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, 2007. 7th ed.

http://search2.library.utoronto.ca/UTL/index?N=0&Nr=p_catalog_code:6006259&showDetail=first

Often called “Turabian,” this book gives detailed examples (Part II) of the two forms of Chicago style. It is more than a citation guide. Part I, “Research and Writing: from Planning to Production,” is a 14-chapter guide to researching and writing an academic paper. Part III, “Style,” provides a handy reference to spelling, punctuation and other issues. Consider it essential for your graduate student tool kit.
