COURSE DESCRIPTION:

A critical consideration of Catholic teaching on human sexuality, marriage and related issues in light of a new evangelization; an application of principles of Catholic anthropology and moral reasoning to contemporary questions regarding sexuality and marriage; a quest for a deeper understanding of our vocation to make an embodied gift of self, pastoral care of families and authentic leadership in a variety of contemporary contexts; Veritatis Splendor and the “theology of the body” provide the foundations and guide these investigations.

CLASS OBJECTIVES:

- Articulate in positive terms an understanding of human sexuality and marriage in light of Catholic anthropology and the Catholic moral tradition, especially as it is informed by Veritatis Splendor<sup>1</sup>
- Discuss the biblical foundations of a Catholic understanding of human sexuality and marriage, with focus on Pope St. John Paul II’s “theology of the body”
- Discuss elements of a fruitful “celibacy for the kingdom” in society today
- Identify key moments in the development of understanding marriage as sacrament with reference to the biblical and theological foundations, especially the “theology of the body”
- Explain the central role of the virtue of chastity in the moral life, appropriate to one’s personal vocation and state in life
- Explain how life and love are inextricably linked -- and the concrete implications of this truth for conjugal life (procreative responsibility, infertility, etc.)
- Critically analyze various pressing questions in contemporary cultural context in light of Catholic understanding of human sexuality
- Identify and address the pastoral dimensions of the above and appropriate pastoral resources
